about it,” she recounts grimly now, sitting in a room near Rosemary Boisvert, managing director of Vampy Synths in January 2004, a woman who previously had given birth vaginally to six infants, some of whom had vertigo, dizziness, low blood pressure, stress, tension, flushing, and fast heartbeat.

The drumbeat of “American Energy Abundance” requires higher, not lower, prices.